

QUINTUS STUDIOS

Quintus Studios is the next generation broadcaster and distributor of premium long form and short form video content. With a pure focus on documentaries and unscripted series, we are actively involved in all steps of the value-creation chain - from development and financing to a successful exploitation on our channels, license-distribution and monetization.

Quintus combines a deep understanding of content and audiences in traditional TV as well as in the algorithm-led environment of digital video, a network of owned & operated VOD- and FAST channels and an established international content sales & buyers network. We act across all relevant video and media platforms around the globe.

Still, there is always room for improvement. That's why we are looking for you to support our team in Berlin as a starting as soon as possible.

Senior Social Video & Platform Manager (m/f/d)

Your area of operations

As Senior Social Video & Platform Manager you build and manage exciting and successful Social Media pages on platforms such as FB (Watch), IGTV, Tiktok and Snapchat for and with our Video Content brands. In close cooperation with your future colleagues from acquisition and production, you will manage the full process from content delivery, editing and preparation to audience development and platform strategy. Our ideal candidate has a proven track record in building huge followership to video brands – organic and paid – on the given platform. Day-to-day tasks will be:

- You oversee and optimize existing video verticals and start new ones
- You launch paid catalyst-campaigns to support a new vertical´s growth
- You take care of the full publishing process from editing (e.g. cutting out ad breaks, blurs, ...) to metadata and thumbnail creation
- You secure our rights via the relevant CRMs and liaise with international rights organizations and our international content partners in cases of right disputes
- You analyze the market environment and research trends and developments

Your Profile

We are looking for people who are fascinated by what they do and who are enthusiastic to move Quintus forward with their dedication and skills. Moreover you...

QUINTUS STUDIOS

- ...speak and write fluent English
- ...are an experienced user of Adobe Photoshop and Premiere Pro
- ...know how to handle the Facebook Rights and Ads Manager and understand the fundamental success factors of videos and their platforms
- ...are an absolute team player
- ...are creative without losing sight of the business aspect
- ...are well organized and work with attention to detail

...then you fit right in.

What we offer

- A relaxed, flexible, life-friendly and at the same time ambitious work environment
- The opportunity to work independently, to experiment, test and learn to develop and implement your own ideas
- Very fast decision processes
- The chance to grow with the business unit and thus to exert significant influence on your own career opportunities
- A fair salary
- Extra holidays, table tennis, budgets for learning courses, flexible working hours and location, shower in the office (for long bike rides into the office or lunch runs), lots of chocolate and
- An exciting and fun time

Sounds amazing? Then please send over your CV and a cover letter describing who you are, what motivates you and why you are the best person for the job. Ideally include some “story work” you’ve done before. Please send all this to:

jobs@quintus-media.com

We are really looking forward to hearing from you!